REFLECTING THIS SUNDAY'S READINGS:

Jesus teaches that his disciples are to be the salt of the earth and the light of the world.

Following upon the teaching of the Beatitudes, Jesus uses the now familiar metaphors of salt and light to describe the life of discipleship. We take salt and light for granted in our society, but these commodities were more precious in ancient cultures. Just as now, salt was used in Jesus' time for flavoring, as a preservative, and as a healing agent. Similarly, the widespread use of electricity in the modern world makes us less aware of the value and importance of light in our lives. Still, our familiarity with this passage from Matthew's Gospel speaks well to the abiding power of the imagery that Jesus presented. Jesus' call to be salt for the earth and light for the world powerfully states our mission as Church and as Christians. Our commitment to social justice flows from the exhortation that Jesus gives us in today's Gospel. Some of the activities that this commitment leads us to are given more concrete expression as the Corporal and Spiritual Works of Mercy. When we feed the hungry, clothe the naked, console those who mourn, and so on, we show ourselves to be the salt of the earth and the light of the world. When we do these things with the community of faith, the Church, we are indeed acting as "a city set on a mountain" that cannot be hidden!

First Reading

- To whom is the prophet speaking?
- What are all the things God wants the people to do?
- What does God promise to do for the people?
- What does life seem to be like for the people at the moment?
- How might the people have felt about these words?
- Why do you think some people weren't helping those in need?
- To whom is Jesus speaking?
- When must people be salt and light?
- How might people lose their flavor?
- Why can't people become salty again?
- What could thrown out and trampled underfoot mean?
- How might people of this era react to the sight of an illuminated city on a mountain?
- Why would someone put a light under a basket?
- What's the purpose of being salt and light?

Gospel

- Why do people set limits on helping others?
- What's the connection between worshiping God and helping others?
- Do you think worship is more important than service and acts of justice?
- How public should your faith be?
- What makes you lose flavor or become dark?
- Share a time you or someone else was drawn to Christ because of a good deed.
